1. 7th European Public Health Conference, Glasgow

The 7th European Public Health Conference will be held in Glasgow, Scotland from 19 to 22 November 2014. The theme for conference is Mind the gap: reducing inequalities in health and health care. This theme was chosen to encourage discussion on how European countries cannot just promote the health of the public but also reduce inequalities in health and health care. Understanding the causes underlying inequities in health and discovering which interventions or policies may reduce inequalities. Current economic circumstances in many countries mean that it is more important than ever for researchers and policy makers to learn from the experiences of each other rather than constantly ‘reinventing the wheel’.

Plenary sessions are organized on the following themes:
- Inequalities in the population: large scale interventions
- Equity across the European region: the European Action Plan for strengthening Public Health Services and Capacity
- Communicable and non-communicable diseases: old challenges, novel solutions
- Marginalised groups: migrant and ethnic minority health
- Looking to the future: translating evidence into policy

Confirmed keynote presenters include:
- Margaret McCartney, General Practitioner and BMJ contributor, Scotland
- Marc Sprenger, Director of ECDC
- Raj Bhopal, University of Edinburgh, Scotland
- Zsuzsanna Jakab, WHO Regional Director for Europe

Please check the conference website at www.eupha.org/glasgow2014 regularly for updated information.

2. EUPHA update

European Union Data Protection Regulation

EUPHA has produced a one page factsheet describing the current situation and the consequences of the proposed regulation and amendments. The factsheet enables our members to raise awareness among the wider public health community and among decision makers in their country about the consequences of the legislation for public health monitoring and research. The revision process is still ongoing, so there still is room for us as a public health community to inform the decision makers about the potential negative effects of the current proposal. More information can be found on the web pages of the EUPHA Section on Public Health Monitoring and Reporting.

International Conference on Urban Health – March 2014

EUPHA through its section on Urban public health is a partner in the International Conference on Urban Health 2014, 4-7 March 2014, Manchester Central Convention Centre, UK. For all the information you need about the conference, including instructions on how to register visit https://www.icuh2014.com/ or our Facebook page https://www.facebook.com/icuh2014.
European Conference on Migrant and Ethnic Minority Health – April 2014
The EUPHA Section of Migrant and Ethnic Minority Health is organizing the next European Conference on Migrant and Ethnic Minority Health in Granada 10-12 April 2014. The third Formal Announcement can be from the website at http://www.eupha-migranthealthconference.com/?page_id=1018.

LEPH2014: The 2nd International Conference on Law Enforcement and Public Health
EUPHA has become a Supporter of the 2nd International Conference on Law Enforcement and Public Health (LEPH2014). The conference will be held at the Free University, Amsterdam, 5 – 8 October 2014. The conference is organised by the Centre for Law Enforcement and Public Health (CLEPH), Melbourne, Australia in collaboration with the Free University, Police, and Public Health Services, Amsterdam, Netherlands.

Policing and public health are both more effective when they are developed and operate in partnership – a critical partnership long in tradition but often neglected in practice. The LEPH Conferences confront this neglect by bringing together police, public health practitioners, academics and policy makers to examine, review, assess, share and learn from each other. A very diverse range of LEPH2014 Conference topics – each with their own challenges – will comprise the program. They include:
- Public health as crime prevention
- Policing and Public Health: the research, education and training agenda
- Alcohol regulation: regulation for health and public order
- Vulnerability, policing and public health issues
- Policing and HIV
- Disability: policing and People with Disabilities
- Road trauma: impacts of road policing on public health
- Mental health: special challenges for policing
- Violence: the Unsafe City and other violence prevention
- Migrant, Refugee, Minority and Indigenous health
- Police leadership in public health responses

This is a ‘must attend’ conference for anyone in public health or law enforcement concerned with enhancing the effectiveness of their work. The call for abstracts is open until 7 March 2014. More information: www.leph2014.com

3. Call for proposals, job opportunities

Call for abstracts EFPC fifth Bi-annual conference
The EFPC Fifth Bi-annual conference “Twinning Population Health and Primary Care”; will be held in Barcelona, Spain, 1-2 September 2014. The scientific committee of the EFPC fifth Bi-annual conference “Twinning Population Health and Primary Care” invites submissions of abstracts for presentations related to the issues and themes of the conference. Submissions should follow one of the following formats:
Research abstracts: These presentations will provide the results, completed or in advanced in-progress form, of original research projects. The material should not have been published elsewhere, except in preliminary form, and it should be ready for publication as a journal article. Papers related to PhD projects, either completed or in progress, are especially encouraged, resulting in a specific PhD strand in the conference. The selected abstracts will be discussed within workshops that are moderated by key-experts in the specific theme.

Policy Debate abstracts: These abstracts describe significant developments in policy (whether governmental, organizational, or any other) that affects primary care associated with the themes of the conference. In particularly national, regional or local policy makers are invited to provide new policy developments. These abstracts will be presented as posters with clear statements for debate. All selected posters will be publically presented/defended in specific parallel sessions with a 15 minutes time-slot for each poster. These sessions are located at innovative settings, such as “debate corners”, animated by an expert facilitator.

Practice Multi-media abstracts: Projects and developments focusing on practice-oriented questions and reporting on recent experiences and innovations in primary care. These presentations should present case descriptions of primary care on the national, regional or local level and are presented as such, without oral explanation. The selected multi-media presentations (video’s, slide-shows, small photo exhibitions, etc.) will be prominently presented with non-stop shows during the conference.

All submissions will be reviewed by the conference scientific committee and you will be e-mailed notification of the results of your submission by June 1st, 2014.

Abstracts will be published in a book of abstracts including the program prior to the conference and in a conference supplement to an International Journal after the conference.

WFPHA - Call for Working Group Members
The WFPHA Governing Council has decided to support the initiative of the International Epidemiological Association (IEA) on “Health in the Post-2015 Development Agenda”, and to develop a cooperation with the IEA in this connection. It has charged Professor Theodor Abelin, MD, MPH, former WFPHA President, with developing and leading a new small ad hoc Committee, and with this group, to develop ideas for a joint session for the International Congress of Epidemiology, to be held in Anchorage, Alaska, USA, from 17 to 21 August, 2014. As a first step its task is to submit an outline for a session on this subject for the 2014 IEA World Congress on Epidemiology, and we are looking for colleagues interested in participating in its preparation.

Therefore, if you know of one of your leaders or colleagues, for example in an academic function, interested in participating, please let Professor Abelin know (th.abelin(at)bluewin.ch). An intention to participate at the Epidemiology congress in Anchorage is not needed, but would of course be helpful.

The IEA Position Paper can be downloaded at www.worldwewant2015.org/node/292903. In summary, it argues that the first drafts in the UN framework for the post-2015 goals omitted all specific health goals, and therefore, emphasis should be on a simple summary health goal, which can be supported by as many health interest groups as possible, and from which specific sub-goals can be deducted. The proposal is to define a Post-2015 Development Goal for life expectancies at different ages, in particular at birth (to stimulate activities in the area of Maternal and Child Health) and at age 40 (to stimulate activities in the area of chronic diseases). WHO had proposed an overarching goal of universal health coverage, but this is considered as less suited, as it neglects addressing prevention based on the social determinants of health.

ISQUA – Call for papers – 31st International Conference in Rio 2014
Submissions are now being accepted under the following tracks:
1. Governance, Leadership and Health Policy
2. Improvement Science and Patient Safety Solutions
3. Patient Centred Care
4. Accreditation and External Evaluations Systems
5. Education and Research
6. Learning with Transitional and Developing Countries
7. Comparative Effectiveness in Health Information Technology and Health Technology Assessment
8. Health and Social Care for Vulnerable and Older Persons
9. Integrated Care

Further information on the Conference and our Call for Papers Guidelines can be found on our website - www.isqua.org

Deadline for Submission: 6th February 2014

Call for symposia and pre-conference workshops - University of Washington School of Public Health

The University of Washington School of Public Health is pleased to announce the 26th Annual International Society for Environmental Epidemiology Conference - From Local to Global: Advancing Science for Policy in Environmental Health. The meeting will be held in Seattle, Washington, USA on August 24-28th, 2014. Updates on this meeting can be found on our conference website: www.isee2014.org

The Call for SYMPOSIA is now open. Symposia will be 90 minute forums of closely related talks on a specific topic relevant to the interests of the conference. At this time we invite you to submit a proposal for symposia, please complete the online submission form by January 15, 2014. Detailed instructions can be found on the conference website.

The Call for Pre-Conference Workshop Proposals is open until January 15, 2014. Instructions can be found on the conference website.

We are inviting additional members of our Scientific Committee to join our Scientific Program Committee. We especially welcome volunteers from outside North America and Western Europe or whose scientific area is outside of the most commonly represented topics at ISEE meetings. Committee members will work with the committee to review and rank submitted abstracts for symposia, oral and/or poster presentations. Please email isee2014@uw.edu to request to join a committee, and provide a summary of your area of expertise/interest.

If you are associated with an organization or scientific group which would like to hold a meeting coordinated with this conference, please contact us at isee2014@uw.edu so we can work with you to locate space and coordinate timing.

Calls for independent experts for Horizon 2020

The DG RTD and Innovation of the European Commission announce that the calls for independent experts for Horizon 2020 have been published (http://eur-lex.europa.eu/OJHtml.do?uri=OJ:C:2013:342:SOM:EN:HTML). They are addressed to individuals for the establishment of a database of prospective independent experts and to organisations such as research agencies, research institutions, universities, standardisation organisations, civil society organisations or enterprises, to attract experts with the widest range of profiles needed for Horizon 2020. These include all the areas of research but also cross-cutting aspects such as: innovation, SMEs, dissemination, knowledge transfer and intellectual property rights, social and economic sciences and humanities, sustainable development and international cooperation. The final expert database will be used, amongst others, to select expert evaluators and reviewers. Your knowledge and experience in FP7 as individuals can be extremely helpful for managing Horizon 2020. We would encourage you to register and/or update your file in the Research and Innovation Participant portal for experts. Please see instructions on how to register here below.

“The global dimension of education and training for public health in the 21st century in Europe and in the world”

7th Edition of the Best Practices in Health Award
Press release 30 November 2013 – The Portuguese Association for the Hospital Development (APDH) and the Directorate-General for Health (DGS) in association with the Central Health Administration (ACSS) and the five Regional Health Administrations and sponsored by external institutions organized the 7th Edition of the Best Practices in Health Award. Public and private entities were invited to apply with ongoing projects which would also take into consideration the Major Planning Options - Health, specifically with regard to the strategy "Improving the quality of care and the patient safety" (www.boaspraticasemsaude.com). The award means to:
1. Distinguish the best practices projects, within the scope of quality and innovation, respecting the defined standards and adding value for the citizen/community or for the practices of the whole Organization therefore impacting directly in the health care delivered.
2. Distinguish the health professionals or teams from the public, private and social sector: a) Who stand out in developing the quality and/or innovations projects thus contributing to improved health outcomes;
b) Who develop creativity projects related with services, products and processes or with new forms of organizing and managing the services delivered and that might enhance quality and safety improvements within the health care.

3. Provide a wider dissemination of the best practices in quality and in innovation, both at national and international levels and wishing for the projects to be replicated or to serve as an incentive for new projects in similar areas

French Society of Public Health – www.sfsp.fr/
Samedi 30 novembre, la SFSP a réuni en séminaire le conseil d’administration et les adhérents qui ont contribué aux 1ères prises de position sur la SNS. Deux groupes de travail ont été institués, l’un sur la question de "la gouvernance", l’autre sur l’approche clivée "promotion de la santé/prévention", deux axes sur lesquels la SFSP demande un éclairage particulier. Les adhérents SFSP peuvent apporter leur contribution aux groupes de travail à accueil@sfsp.info en communiquant leurs attentes et idées de leviers les plus opératoires possibles sur ces deux grands thèmes. Les ARS organisent jusqu’en février 2014 des débats régionaux pour alimenter la stratégie nationale de santé. Un 1er calendrier vient d’être communiqué par le Ministère des affaires sociales et de la santé.

Promoting health, preventing disease: is there an economic case?

This new policy summary reviews some of the economic arguments for investing in a number of different areas of health promotion and noncommunicable disease prevention. It argues that there is a substantial evidence base on the effectiveness of a wide range of actions, addressing some of the main risk factors to health including tobacco and alcohol consumption, impacts of diet and patterns of physical activity, children's exposure to environmental harm, the protection of mental health and road safety. While some of these interventions will generate direct cost savings, many will require increased investment but generate additional health (and other) benefits.

This new publication draws on a major international study undertaken jointly by the Observatory, OECD and WHO/Europe, that collates the evidence on investing in health promotion and non-communicable disease prevention. This study, that will be published next year as a book "Health Promotion, Disease Prevention: The Economic Case", forms the basis for one of the evidence pillars for WHO's Health 2020 strategy.

The policy summary was presented at a special event in London on 4 November 2013 hosted by England's Department of Health to inaugurate the newly established partnership with the Observatory, promoting and facilitating international knowledge transfer in health policy making.

The policy summary is now available online: http://www.euro.who.int/en/about-us/partners/observatory/policy-briefs-and-summaries/promoting-health,-preventing-disease-is-there-an-economic-case
