

Ethics, values, and law for public health in a world in turmoil

A new call for papers for an upcoming supplement from Journal of Public Health

Areas of particular interest will include:

- The moral mandate of public health and implications for policy and practice
- Building competence, capacity, and resilience of public health professionals and institutions
- Ethics, values, laws, and governance for building healthy communities through organized efforts of society
- Legal and ethical dimensions of climate change, conflict, migration and the polycrisis
- Other areas which contribute to the discourse, scholarship and good courageous public health practice and policies in a world in turmoil

Deadline: 27 April 2025

academic.oup.com/jpubhealth