

Announcement: EUPHA presents COVID-19 video reports

COVID-19 through a public health lens

As COVID-19 continues to cause widespread fatalities and disruption around the world, EUPHA is producing video reports shining light on the vital work of Europe's public health community, and the sector's role in maintaining and improving public health through the pandemic and into the future.

The video reports will feature a series of films exploring the outbreak's broad impact on health and the economy in Europe. It will look at the immense pressure on health systems and their response to this unprecedented challenge, highlight the importance of evidence-based approaches and health literacy in providing much needed solutions, and address key lessons to support the development of prevention and response strategies for future pandemics.

Produced in line with social distancing guidelines, the video reports will present insight from public health experts representing organisations such as EUPHA, the World Federation of Public Health Associations (WFPHA), the European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control (ECDC), the European Observatory on Health Systems and Policies, the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine (LSHTM), and leading universities throughout Europe.

Dr Iveta Nagyova, EUPHA President, said: "Our understanding of the virus and its ramifications across society is changing daily, and it's inspiring to see the efforts of our members and colleagues across Europe who are working tirelessly to adapt health services and manage the crisis. There's never been a more important time for the public health community to pull together in tackling the challenges we face and through these video reports we raise awareness of key issues and encourage solutions."

The video reports will be available to view on our COVID-19 updates page and on our social channels (expected early June).

The European Public Health Association, or EUPHA in short, is an umbrella organisation for public health associations in Europe. Our network of national associations of public health represents around 20'000 public health professionals. Our mission is to facilitate and activate a strong voice of the public health network by enhancing visibility of the evidence and by strengthening the capacity of public health professionals. EUPHA contributes to the preservation and improvement of public health in the European region through capacity and knowledge building. We are committed to creating a more inclusive Europe, narrowing all health inequalities among Europeans, by facilitating, activating, and disseminating strong evidence-based voices from the public health community and by strengthening the capacity of public health professionals to achieve evidence-based change.
