

2015 Global Health Forum in Taiwan

Taipei City, Taiwan
November 1st – 2nd, 2015

Since its transition from the Taiwan Health Forum in 2013, the Global Health Forum in Taiwan had invited nearly 100 of the world’s distinguished health care organization leaders, health ministers, officials and public health experts to congregate in in knowledge and experience sharing of pertinent health issues like health promotion, non-communicable diseases, obesity, healthy ageing, health in all policies and health inequality. Audience participation has also grown significantly over the years with record-setting attendance achieved in the previous two year.

For the year 2015, the theme of the Forum has been set as “Public Health Governance,” which explores the structure, accountability and roles of various stakeholders of health governance, as well as investigating the roles that government can play in reducing health inequality, and capacity building in public health leadership. The Forum will also feature discussion on global and domestic cancer issues, participation of civil society and global experience sharing.

We courteously invite you to come to Taiwan this November and join in this prestigious and wonderful event. Registration is free for all participants (airfare and accommodation not covered). For more information regarding Forum participation or registration, please contact Mr. Tony Huang of the Health Promotion Administration at wxiii013@hpa.gov.tw
