

EUPHA snapshot 2012-2

The Economic Crisis and its Impact on Public Health

References to abstracts used to produce this snapshot:

2006 conference: Parallel session B5: occupational health

Social and economic consequences of sickness absence

C Lindholm^{1*}, M Backhans², P Fredlund³

¹Department of Caring and Public Health Sciences, Mälardalen University, Västerås, Sweden

²Research Department, National Institute of Public Health, Stockholm, Sweden

³National Board of Health and Welfare. Stockholm, Sweden

2010 conference: Parallel Session 6.7. Workshop: Where sociology meets public health: workforce governance and professionalism

The need for evidence-driven public health workforce governance

M Jambroes*

Department of Social Medicine, Academic Medical Centre, University of Amsterdam, Amsterdam, The Netherlands

The potential transferability of evidence from inter-state cost studies comparisons

C Huttin*

University Paul Cezanne—ENDEPUSresearch Inc, Cambridge, USA

Debate on integrating public health information systems for informing European policy makers and practitioners

N Fahy¹, M Huber², M Pearson³, M Sprenger⁴, Jörgensen F Kamper⁵

¹DG Sanco, Luxembourg,

²WHO, Copenhagen, Denmark,

³OECD, Paris, France,

⁴ECDC, Stockholm, Sweden,

⁵Danish Society of Public Health, Copenhagen, Denmark.

2009 Parallel Session 6.9 Impact assessment

The public health impact of economic crises and alternative policy responses in Europe

D Stuckler^{1,2*}, S Basu³, M Suhrcke^{4,5}, A Coutts⁶, M McKee⁷

¹Oxford University, Department of Sociology, Oxford, United Kingdom

²London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine, Department of Public Health and Policy, London, United Kingdom

³University of California San Francisco, Department of Medicine & San Francisco General Hospital, Division of General Internal Medicine, San Francisco, United States

⁴University of East Anglia, School of Medicine, Health Policy and Practice, Norwich, United Kingdom

⁵Centre for Diet and Activity Research (CEDAR), Cambridge, United Kingdom

⁶Oxford Department of Politics and International Relations, Oxford, United Kingdom

⁷London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine & European Observatory on Health Systems and Policies, London, United Kingdom

2009 Parallel Session 7.8 Late breaker The impact of the economic crisis on public health - What is the role of the public health community

Late breaker: The impact of the economic crisis on public health: what is the role of the public health community

Chair: Josep Figueras, European Observatory on Health Systems and Policies

What is the evidence of the impact of the economic crisis on public health?

David Stuckler, UK

What we know and what we do not know—update from WHO/EURO

Update from the European Commission

Reflections from EUPHA: what should the public health community do?

Walter Ricciardi, Italy

Debate on the role of the public health community

2009 Plenary Session 2 Thursday 26 November 2009, 1740-1840-Twenty years of the European Charter on environment and health

Environment and health in the European Union: challenges and achievements

A Rys*

Director Public Health Directorate, European Commission, Brussels, Belgium

Twenty years of the environment and health process in Europe—the European environment agency perspective

Jacqueline McGlade*, presented by David Stanners

Executive Director of the European Environment Agency, Copenhagen, Denmark

2009 Plenary Session 4 Friday 27 November 2009, 1645-1745

United Europe and public health problems: common policies and common responsibility?

WC Włodarczyk*

Collegium Medicum, Faculty of Health Sciences, Jagiellonian University, Krakow, Poland

2009 Parallel Session 1.10 Inequalities and social justice

Growth, inequality and population health in the era of economic globalization

CH Liu¹*, TL Chiang²

¹Department of Family Medicine, National Taiwan University Hospital, Taipei, Taiwan

²College of Public Health, National Taiwan University, Taipei, Taiwan

2009 Poster Session 9 Infectious diseases

The financial crisis and public wealth: prospects for TB control in Europe

JE Suk*, D Manissero, G Bu?scher, JC Semenza

European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control, Stockholm, Sweden

2011 Plenary presentation

The consequences of economic crises and the responses to them for population health

Martin McKee

Professor of European Public Health, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine and European Observatory on Health Systems and Policies, London, United Kingdom

2011 Conference session 2E Ethics and values in public health

Economic hardship and depression in Europe: the role of attitudes towards state responsibility in different welfare state regimes

K Levecque¹, R Van Rossem¹, E Ronda^{2,3}, FG Benavides^{3,4}, J Love⁵
1Ghent University. Ghent. Belgium.
2Alicante University. Alicante. Spain
3CISAL. Research Center in Occupational Health, Barcelona. Spain
4Pompeu Fabra University. Barcelona. Spain
5Robert Gordon University. Aberdeen. United Kingdom.

2011 Conference Workshop 3A: How politics matters: welfare state regimes and health inequalities

Work, Worklessness and the Political Economy of Health Inequalities

C Bambra

Department of Geograph, Wolfson Research Institute, Durham University, UK

2011 Conference: Session 7A: Welfare and health

General health and stress - is there an effect of the economic crisis in Denmark?

L Hammer-Helmich¹, KM Robinson¹, LP Buhelt¹, AH Andreasen¹, C Glu?mer¹

1Research Centre for Prevention and Health, Glostrup University Hospital, The Capital Region of Denmark, Denmark

2011 Conference: Session 8A: Socio-economic determinants of health

Changes in economic difficulties as determinants of health related functioning

T Lallukka, E Lahelma, O Rahkonen, M Laaksonen

Hjelt Institute, Department of Public Health, University of Helsinki, Helsinki, Finland